The Rotary Foundation inducted into University of Oxford's Chancellor's Court of Benefactors

The Rotary Foundation has been welcomed into the University of Oxford's Chancellor's Court of Benefactors for its continuous support of the university.

Since 1949, The Foundation has provided scholarships to more than 200 Oxford scholars including a former American ambassador to the United Kingdom, a Pulitzer Prize-winning author and investigative reporter with the New York Times, and a Director & Senior Fellow at the Ansari Africa Centre.

"The university is enormously grateful to The Rotary Foundation for their support of graduate scholarships at Oxford," said Professor Louise Richardson, Vice-Chancellor, University of Oxford. "For almost 70 years, this support has enabled students from around the world to benefit from all that Oxford has to offer."

Membership of the Court of Benefactors is conferred by the Chancellor on those who have been outstandingly generous towards the university. Members may be individuals, or nominated representatives of companies and trusts.

Michael Webb, trustee of The Rotary Foundation, accepted membership on behalf of the Foundation on 11th October last year at a ceremony in Oxford.

"The Rotary Foundation is honoured to receive this designation and I am humbled to accept on its behalf," said Mr Webb. "The Foundation has fostered international interaction and understanding through academic scholars at Oxford for decades, and we will continue our efforts to help develop the world's future leaders through academic support at this prestigious university."

The Chancellor's Court of Benefactors celebrates and recognises Oxford's most outstanding friends and supporters. Founded in 1990 by the late Lord Jenkins, the former Labour Chancellor and Home Secretary, today there are more than 250 members from around the globe whose significant contributions have assisted Oxford in being the world leading institution that it is today.

The Rotary Foundation joins a prestigious list of members including, Thomson Reuters Foundation, The Skoll Foundation and others.
